Support for the proposed $10,000 library bonds at the election on August 31 was asked of the Rotary Club by Mrs. L. E. Hilke, chairman of the library board. Miss May Coddington, city librarian, and Mrs. Henry Goodcell, and the club named Joe E. King to have charge of marshalling the forces on election day to insure getting out a good vote. If the city votes $10,000 in bonds, the Carnegie corporation will give $7,600 but the building must be completed by next June to secure this donation.

Dr. Charles C. Curtis, president of the Redlands Rotary Club, spoke on anti-health and anti-medical legislation which will come up at the November election and outlined the purposes of four important bills, namely: The anti-vivisection act, the public school protection league measure or anti-vaccination bill, and the bills pertaining to chiropractic and osteopathic regulation. He stated that passage of any of the acts

A FRIEND

Has any soul been cheered and stirred
Because of you in any way?

Did you pass out a kindly word,
Or do a noble deed one day.
Or comfort someone in distress,
Which caused them to achieve success?

Does any heart beat warm and true
Because of anything you said?
Is there someone, because of you,
Who struggled bravely on ahead,
And up Fame's height made the ascent,
Because of your encouragement?

Do any lips your goodness praise,
And murmur gratefully your name?
Is there one, whom in other days,
You helped along the road to fame,
Who, but for you, in life's mad race,
Would have met sorrow or disgrace?

Do eyes of love look in your own,
And hands clasp yours in bondage strong,

Who met you, wearied and alone,
As they toiled painfully along—
Some one you aided to the end,
Who proudly claims you as a friend?
—E. A. BRINISTOOL.

Ross Deyoe.—"How's this, waiter?
You've charged me two dollars and a half for planked steak!"
"Sorry sir, but lumber's gone up again."

"The average married man," says Luke McLuke, sage of the Cincinnati Enquirer and Valley Mills (Texas) Tribune, "would rather have his wife pick his pockets than his necktie."

would menace the health of the public.

Fred Robbins of Gainesville, Tex., a wholesale grocer who is visiting here, was the guest of Forest E. Page, and J. P. Martin, of Calipatria, was the guest of Jesse F. McKinney.—San Bernardino Sun.

A European scientist hears that Americans do not take enough exercise. Why, he's crazy. Let him come over here and see how we swing the hammer and throw the bull.

Some one is always taking the joy out of life: Just as we were starting to write a funny little joke a truck load of coffins rolled by our office window.

There's an ivy-covered cottage where the old folks wait for me,
'Neath the red hills of North Carolina
by the sea;
It's a quaint old-fashioned farmhouse where I saw the light of day.
Recollection paints the scene so far away.

'Neat hthe clinging ivy vine,
There's a big "Bull Durham" sign,
On the chicken house it says "Take Beecham's Pills,"

On the old red barn you read that
"Castoria you need,"
And the pig sty advertises "Crosby's Mills."

Oh, the back fence held up "Paris
Garters."
And the cow shed sings the praise of "Rubifoam."

"Aunt Jemima's smiling face bids you welcome to the place.
That's the picture of my old North Carolina Home.

Both the Erie and the B. & O. pass right before the door.
You can always get a cinder in your eye.

And my fam'ly all make faces at the passing engineers,
That's how we get our winter's coal supply.

On the pasture's gentle slope there's an ad reads "Big Ben,"
And the wooden cow that gives un-sweetened cream."

There's a can of "Heniz's Beans," also "Burrough's Rustless Screens,"
And a life size picture of the "Gold Dust Team."

Oh, the corn crib's camouflaged by
"Slidetite Hardware,
And the windmill represents a "gramophone."

On the back porch is a sign:
Reading, "Mellen's Food for Mine."
That's a picture of my old North Carolina Home.

I AM THE FLAG.

LONG MAY SHE WAVE—
pinned to the wall at the corners, gathering dust like an old-fashioned curtain, my silken texture burned by the window glare—my symmetrical shape, warped askew, and ragged holes left in me.

I WANT A MATE—A POLE TO HANG ON.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

President Snedecor has not yet announced his committees, but he has advised that the following chairmen have been appointed

Constitution and By-Laws—Donald MacRae of Halifax.

Foreign Extension—John Barrett of Washington, D. C.

Official Publication—Louis D. Hicks of Atlanta.

Publicity—Guy Gundaker of Philadelphia.

U. S. Federal Charter—James F.
Finlay of Chattanooga.

NOTHING TO IT

Rumor has said that the Convention
Surplus will go to Atlantic City Rotary Club. There is nothing in that rumor at all, at all. The surplus will form the Convention Fund of the Association to be used in helping finance future conventions as may prove necessary. Bill Graham is still at Atlantic City settling up with the hotels. When he comes to Chicago the books will be audited and a complete statement published.

GIVE HIM THE BEST!

Doc Baylis—Madam, I shall have to paint your husband's throat with nitrate of silver.

Profiteer's Wife—Please use nitrate of gold, Doctor. The expense is quite immaterial.

If gasoline prices continue to soar it won't be long until its odor on your freshly cleaned suit will be an indication of your financial standing.
