Actors Jane Seymour and James Keach to Receive Award

The couple will accept the honor at the university's American Celebration black-tie gala, Nov. 6, 2004.

The event raises funds for student scholarships.

ORANGE, Aug. 2, 2004 Chapman University today announced the 2004 recipients of its Lifetime Achievement in the Arts Award: married actors/artists James Keach and Jane Seymour.

The annual award recognizes individuals in the arts and entertainment world whose presence and body of work exemplify commitment, excellence and challenging oneself to reach for one's dreams.

It will be presented live at Chapman's 2004 edition of American Celebration, an original song-and-dance extravaganza created and performed by Chapman students, faculty, staff and alumni. Following the stage show is the gala dinner and award presentation.

Previous recipients include multiple Emmy Award winner Doris Roberts, "Schindler's List" producer Gerald R. Molen, actor Karl Malden, Oscar-winning composer Elmer Bernstein, singer Natalie Cole, actor/dancer Gregory Hines and singer/actress Nell Carter.

American Celebration, now in its 23rd year, will take place Saturday, Nov. 6. Ticket prices begin at $750 per person. For more information, call (714) 744-7958.
