Darling Fink,

Today I got two letters from you. One written Dec. 17, and the other you'd written the 20th.

I was so sorry to hear you'd had the flu, honey. Hope it's all better, and you're feeling tops again. That was swell of Lena taking such good care of you. You and I must have been under the weather about the same time honey. I ran a little temperature, and the doc had me stay in four days.

That's a swell idea starting a Christmas club fund for each of us. We won't miss the two dollars a week, and it will come in plenty handy next Christmas 'cause we're really going to celebrate it right next year 'lover. In fact we'll be celebrating all the time 'cause every day will be a holiday when we're together sweetie. There are so many things we'll want to do we won't know where to begin, and we have so much lovemaking to catch up on well just have to spend the rest of our lives making love.

Yes, honey I'm glad you have the car to drive to work. It's too cold to be walking back and forth. It will be even better when I can fire you from your job. It's going to be so wonderful coming home from work to you sweetie. You're the dearest and darlings and sweetest and best wife in all the world, and every day I love you more and more.

I don't know anything new about coming home sweetie, but I think the present mixup will turn out to be a good thing. They're putting on a lot of pressure right now, and that usually helps to speed things up.

Darling I love you so very much. You're such a dear sweet lover girl, and I'm just existing till that happy day when we can begin to enjoy our good way of life together.

I'm enclosing millions of hugs and kisses and all my love.

Your own,
Jack
