Ogoun Badagris derives its inspiration from Haitian drumming patterns, particularly those of the Juba Dance. Hence, it seemed logical to tie in the work with various aspects of Voodoo ritual. Ogoun Badagris is one of the oldest and strongest of all Voodoo loas (deities), where he is believed to represent metallurgy, hunting, politics, and war. As Ogoun's terrible wrath is feared among his believers, this work may thus be interpreted as a dance of appeasement. The four conga drums often act as the focal point in the work and can be compared with the role of the four most basic drums in the Voodoo religion — the be-be, the seconde, the maman, and the asator. The metal plates and sleighbells are to a certain extent parallels of the Haitian ogan, a set of iron bells. The work begins with a brief action de grace, which is both a Thanksgiving to God and a ceremonial call-to-action, in which the high priest shakes the giant rattle known as the asson (here replaced by c abasa). The principle dance, while being firmly set in triple 6/8 meter, has polyrhythmic motives, set in a duple 2/4 meter, interwoven throughout. After many exchanges of solo fanfares and dramatic changes of texture, the work concludes with the Danse Vaudou, representing the moment at which the dancers would be overcome by spirit possession. The word "reler," which the performers shriek at the conclusion of the work, is the Voodoo equivalent of the Judaeo-Christian amen. Christopher Rouse & Nick Terry)

The title [Omphalo Centric Lecture] comes from a 1939 painting by Paul Klee - the direct & centered simplicity of which was an inspiration to me during the writing of this piece. The piece also owes much to African Balofon music, with its persistent ostinati, cross - rhythms & variations on simple melodic fragments. Like African music it seeks to celebrate life through rhythm, energy & movement. It was originally composed for the Sydney based percussion quartet "Synergy". (Nigel Westlake)

The Concerto for Prepared Piano and Percussion is a summation of ideas and sounds developed over a period of eight years - my entire life in Australia, in fact. I found rhythms from my everyday life spilling into the music - breathing rhythms, the syncopation of the car door falling shut, as well as hypnotic, trance-like waves, the mechanical tinkling of miniature music boxes, and even a somewhat skewed Batucada (Brazilian Samba) band! (Erik Griswold)

Le Souvenir: four snare drums roll, seemingly in perpetuity. Along their way, they strike up an innocent conversation of simple rhythms. Flurried outbursts and stark silences are followed by an abrupt departure to a far afield environment. Le Souvenir, a memento or a keepsake, is offered at the conclusion. (Nick Terry)

Simple Addition: Deep grooves for vibraphone and marimba augmented by bowls, pots, springs & other found objects. (Erik Griswold)

Marimba Splash is an exuberant, rhythmically-charged new work for two marimba soloists and a quartet of percussion featuring a lush array of drums and metallic instruments (including tam tams, Chinese cymbals, spiral trash cymbals, muted gongs, ice bells, and numerous "splash" cymbals). Notable throughout the work is the use of an expanded and nuanced palette of sounds, including bowed cymbals placed and pitch-modulated on timpani, muted & bowed marimba, superball on tam tam, and alternating use of sticks/mallets/rutes on drums. (Nick Terry)

Composers

Christopher Rouse is one of America's most prominent composers of orchestral music. His works have won a Pulitzer Prize (for his Trombone Concerto) and a Grammy Award (for Concert de Gaudí), as well as election to the prestigious American Academy of Arts and Letters. Rouse has created a body of work perhaps unequalled in its emotional intensity. The New York Times has called it "some of the most anguished, most memorable music around." The Baltimore Sun has written: "When the music history of the late 20th century is written, I suspect the explosive and passionate music of Rouse will loom large." Born in Baltimore in 1949, Rouse developed an early interest in both classical and popular music. He graduated from Oberlin Conservatory and Cornell University, numbering among his principal teachers George Crumb and Karel Husa. Rouse maintained a steady interest in popular music: at the Eastman School of Music, where he was Professor of Composition until 2002, he taught a course in the history of rock for many years. Rouse is currently a member of the composition faculty at The Juilliard School. In 2012, he began his two-year tenure as Composer-in-Residence with the New York Philharmonic.

Nigel Westlake's career in music has spanned more than 3 decades. He studied the clarinet with his father, Donald Westlake (a prominent Australian musician & principal clarinetist with the Sydney Symphony orchestra 1961-1979), and subsequently left school early to pursue a performance career in music. Nigel toured Australia and the world playing with ballet companies, a circus troupe, chamber music groups, fusion bands and orchestras to the cities of London, New York, Rome, Washington, Tokyo, Beijing, Paris, Amsterdam, Vancouver, Moscow, Hong Kong, Berlin, New Delhi, and Singapore to name but a few. His interest in composition dates from the late 1970's when he formed a classical/jazz-rock/world-music fusion band to play original music. During this time he started to receive offers to compose for radio and circus, to which commissions for TV and film soon followed.

Eclectic composer-pianist Erik Griswold fuses experimental, jazz and world music traditions to create works of striking originality. Specializing in prepared piano, percussion and toy instruments, he has created a musical universe all his own that is "sincere" (neural.it), "playful" (igloo magazine), "colourful and refreshingly unpretentious" (Paris Transatlantic). Since the late 1980s he has composed solo and chamber works for many adventurous performers in the U.S. and Australia, such as Margaret Leng Tan, Steven Schick, Either/Or Ensemble, Decibel, Kurilpa String Quartet, red fish blue fish, Speak Percussion, and many others. Griswold has lived in San Diego, Los Angeles, New York, Melbourne, Adelaide, and now calls Brisbane home. He is currently adjunct professor at Queensland Conservatorium, Griffith University, and holds a PhD from University of California, San Diego.

Fritz Hauser was born 1953 in Basel/Switzerland. He develops solo programs for drums and percussion, which he performs worldwide. Cross-media works include those with architect Boa Baumann, as well as with director Barbara Frey, the light designer Brigitte Dubach, and the choreographers Joachim Schloemer, Hedy Maalem, and Anna Huber. In addition, he composes for percussion ensembles and soloists, sound installations (a.o. Therme Vals, Museum of Architecture Basel, Kunsthaus Zug), radio plays, music for films and readings. In the field of improvised music he has worked together with numerous musicians: Urs Leimgruber, Joëlle Léandre, Marilyn Crispell, Christy Doran, Pauline Oliveros, Lauren Newton, Patrick Demenga, Fred Frith. Since the Stockholm International Percussion Event (1998), he has been collaborating with different percussion groups and soloists around the world: Kroumata, Synergy Percussion, Nexus, Speak Percussion, Keiko Abe, Steven Schick, Bob Becker, Michael Askill, ensemble XII, Srosh Percussion. He has released numerous CDs as soloist and with various groups. www.fritzhauser.ch

Eckhard Kopetzki was born 1956 in Hannover, Germany. He studied music education and physics at the University of Osnabrück and the Music College in Würzburg. Since 1985, he teaches percussion instruments and music theory (harmony) at the Berufsfachschule für Musik in Sulzbach – Rosenberg. He is well known for his compositions written specifically for young percussionists, as well as for professional artists and chamber music. In 2002, he won 1st prize in the Percussive Arts Society composition contest for his multiple-percussion solo "Canned Heat". Again in 2003, he won the 1st prize with his marimba solo "Three Movements for a Solo Dancer". Following this success, many pieces have been commissioned by numerous ensembles and orchestras, and he has become busy as a juror in international competitions.
