Moscow Contemporary Music Ensemble

Moscow Contemporary Music Ensemble (MCME) was founded in 1990 by Yuri Kasparov, under the patronage of the Edison Denisov. The ensemble focuses on promoting 20th and 21st century music. It is Russia’s foremost contemporary chamber ensemble and consists of some of the best Russian musicians specializing in modern music.

MCME has strong educational goals and works closely with both Russian and international cultural foundations to bring contemporary music to a wide range of audiences. As part of this goal, MCME has organized the International Young Composers Academy (Tchaikovsky City, Ural) to bring together both young composers and internationally recognized composers in workshops.

The ensemble’s repertoire is quite extensive and has included the premiere of almost 800 different works. Particularly, they champion the music of Russian composers of the 1920’s and 30’s, such as Nikolai Roslavets and Alexander Mosolov. Additionally, they regularly perform music by “Shestidesyatniki” (1960’s Russian) composers. MCME regularly performs in many diverse locales across Russia (80 cities) and elsewhere in the world, including Armenia, Austria, Belarus, Czech Republic, Cyprus, Denmark, Finland, France, Georgia, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Lithuania, Macedonia, Moldova, the Netherlands, Poland, Romania, Slovakia, Spain, Switzerland, Turkey, Ukraine, Uzbekistan and USA. MCME performed on the best concert stages, took part in the biggest international festivals such as Moscow Biennale for Contemporary Art, Diaghilev Fest (Russia, Perm), Radio-France presences (Paris), Frankfurt Fest, Maerzmusik (Germany), Gaudeamus music week, The Night of the Unexpected (the Netherlands), Warsaw Autumn (Poland), Klangspuren (Austria) and others.

MCME has recorded more than 40 CDs for leading CD labels, including Ofympia (UK), Harmonia Mundi (France), Triton (Japan), Donemus (The Netherlands), Fancymusic (Russia), etc.

Each season MCME gives around 70 concerts in Russia and abroad. The special place in repertoire is allocated for music of young Russian and foreign composers. The ensemble also takes active part in the international multimedia and theatrical projects. In 2009 MCME became the winner of the ACTION Award in support of theatrical initiatives. In 2013 MCME got the GOLDEN MASK Award.

Les Ruines circulaires

After a short story by Jorge-Luis Borges: a man dreams, dreams of another person who gradually comes to life, becomes real, acquires consciousness. Then the dreamer notices that he is in fact only the product of someone else’s dream. The violin dreams slowly growing out of the clarinet music. The two instruments confront each other, the clarinet triumphs, and in turn begins to dream. This dream elicits a new violin melody...

“Hänschen klein” from Ein Kinderspiel for piano

Helmut Lachenmann was a student of the Stuttgart Musikhochschule, under the piano tutelage of Jürgen Uhde, and learned theory and counterpart with Johann Nepomuk David. From 1958 to 1960, he traveled to Venice, where he studied with Luigi Nono, whom he had met earlier at the Darmstädter Ferienkurse. Lachenmann later returned to Stuttgart Musikhochschule as a composition professor, and invented the concept of musique concrete instrumentale. He describes this style as one in which the sound events are chosen and organized so that the manner in which they are generated is at least as important as the resultant acoustic qualities themselves” (qtd. in Mosch). Lachenmann has been renowned for his rejection of elements in music, exemplified through his repudiation of tonal aspects, such as continuous melodic flow, and through his resistance to form as well as his fusion of different rhythms and folk tunes. “Hänschen klein”, or “Little Hans”, is a widely known Germanic children’s folk melody, its use here demonstrating his unique style through the blending of folk tunes with his own sonorities (Richter, 35). In this piece, Lachenmann denies traditional Classical structure, while exposing listeners to a network of contrasting timbres through his pedal techniques, use of clusters, and variations in dynamics and tempi.

DSCH

A native of Tomsk, Russia, Edison Denisov was mentored by Shostakovich, and studied with Shebalin at the Moscow Conservatory after seeking degrees in mathematics and physics and learning to play the piano and clarinet. Denisov championed an avant-garde compositional style, writing chamber music, the renowned vocal cycle Le Vie en rouge, an opera, an oratorio, and a Requiem, while acting as an advocate for fusing Western and Eastern European compositional styles together and for reviving the works of avant-garde composers such as Boulez and Stockhausen. After the fall of the Soviet Union, Denisov taught composition at the Moscow Conservatory and was granted the position of high officer in the Union of Composers. The DSCH motive derives from a musical “signature” used by Shostakovich; it refers to his first initial (for Dmitri) and last name, and can be found in several of his works. The title of Denisov’s piece derives from the musical material he quotes from Shostakovich, the D becoming synonymous with Denisov and with D Major, as well as being a reference to Shostakovich’s first name. Kholopov and Tsenova in their book on Edison Denisov note that another aspect to pay attention to in this piece is Denisov’s employment of block rhythms, or the concept that time may not be subdivided into smaller units, therefore making a block the most microscopic value, and classifying each block as a separate part to the larger whole of the musical work itself (64).

The Laughing Man Alphabet
The title of the piece refers to the last name of the contemporary German composer Helmut Lachenmann (b. 1935), whose last name, loosely translated to English, means "laughing man." The reference is not limited only to the title of the piece; my musical idea is to incorporate Helmut Lachenmann’s suite for piano “Ein Kinderspiel” (“Child’s play,” a suite of seven little pieces composed in 1980) as a framework in my own composition, shaping the form as seven variations on Lachenmann’s seven piano pieces.

A particular emphasis (in terms of musical references) is given to the first piece from the suite, "Hänschen klein," because of its importance and placement (as an opening movement) in Lachenmann's suite. The title of the first movement, "Hänschen klein," ("Little Hans") comes from a poem by German author and public school teacher Franz Wiedemann (1821-1882). It is a story about a little boy who was gone for seven years and when he comes back, he is all grown up and changed so much that only his mother recognizes and welcomes him back.

The poem was set to a tune and became a popular children’s song. It also seems that the reference to the Wiedemann’s poem to seven years of wandering might have impacted the overall form of the Lachenmann’s suite, written in seven movements. And that’s why few lines from Wiedemann’s poem in Hänschen klein, Geht allein [Little Hans] Eins, zwei, drei, Geh'n vorbei [One, two, three, Pass and see], "Welch Gesicht?" ["Who is this?"] are spoken and vocalized by the flutist, tracking the path of a prodigal son from Wiedemann’s poem, who came back home after seven long years of "joy and tears."

Durations I
Morton Feldman studied piano under Russian teacher Maurina Press, initially composing works similar to those of Scriabin, and composition under Stephan Wolpe and Wolfram Rieger, which challenged him to develop his own style prior to composing orchestral works in Berlin. As a native of New York, Feldman collaborated with John Cage, and was heavily influenced by the philosophies of expressionist painters, including abstraction, gesture (involving focusing on the process of creating rather than the final product), and the distortion of time via flat planes (Johnson). These effects are noted in “Durations I,” as Feldman intended that all instruments begin on the same chord, yet he left the length of each pitch to the discretion of the performers, causing the timbre of each new pitch to annul or blend together with the color of the previous pitch. Feldman’s instructions not to re-articulate the pizzicatos and to slow down the grace notes so as not to give one rhythm hierarchy over another, along with his idea of a “kaleidoscope of sound,” contribute to his artistic goal of rejecting the concept of time so that music may achieve its freest state. (Feldman, 1).

Pierrot’s Dreams
One of my most performed works, Pierrot’s Dreams was written in 2006 as a commission for the New York ensemble Da Capo Chamber Players. It was performed in Russia (Moscow, Saint-Petersburg, Nizhny Novgorod, Kazan), Austria (Vienna), Israel (Tel-Aviv, Jerusalem), Germany (Berlin), Spain (Madrid), Sweden (Stockholm), and Argentina (Buenos Aires). The piece is inspired by the famous Pierrot Lunaire by Arnold Schoenberg and based on the same line-up of musicians but without voice. An epigraph of the piece explains the artistic idea of the work:

“During a sleep a man holds a thread of hours, the order of years and worlds around himself. He copes with them instinctively, awakening, guesses right in one instant the point of the globe, which he occupies, and time, which had passed before his awakening; but they can get confused in him, their order can be distorted.” Marcel Proust, Du cote de chez Swann (Swann’s Way)." (Alexander Radvilovich)
Denisov was born in 1929 in Tomsk, Siberia, where he first studied mathematics at university. In 1951 he took up musical studies at the Moscow Conservatory—composition with Vissarion Shebalin, orchestration with Nikolai Rakov, analysis with Viktor Zuckerman and piano with Vladimir Belov—which he completed in 1956.

In the sixties, Denisov devoted himself to an in-depth study of the work of the “classic” composers of the twentieth century (Stravinsky, Bartók, the Second Viennese School) and of contemporary Western art (Boulez, Nono, Stockhausen and Lutosławski). This period corresponds to his search for a personal style which, at the time, was beginning to affirm itself in vocal and instrumental pieces. Of great significance for his further development proved to be the vocal chamber piece Le serail des Inasas, premiered in 1964 by Gennady Rozhdestvensky in Leningrad and later performed by Bruno Maderna, Pierre Boulez and other conductors throughout Europe and in America, as this work marked the point of departure for the composer’s personal style.

In the following decade, Denisov concentrated on works for large ensembles and wrote most of his concerti, many of which were commissioned by pre-eminent Western soloists such as flutist Aurèle Nicolet, oboist Heinz Holliger, clarinettist Eduard Brunner and saxophonist Jean-Marie Londeix. The world première of the Violin Concerto was given in Milan by Gidon Kremer. The rigorous organization of the musical fabric which was a characteristic of Denisov’s output in the sixties gradually gave way to a supple and free use of the most varied compositional techniques and processes, dictated by the general nature of each work.

For Denisov, the eighties corresponded to the mature period, lyrical and of a very vocal nature, and determined by series of characteristic intonations, in particular motifs based on seconds and thirds. This was writing which often recalled the heterophony of Russian folksongs, marked by highly diversified rhythms and containing numerous difficulties for the performers. Finally, this was a dramatic art which implied a progressive development of the material and important culminating episodes. It was during these years that the composer penned his most notable works: the opera L’ome de jours, premiered in 1986 at the Opéra Comique in Paris, the chamber opera Quatre jeunes filles (Four Young Girls), based on a play by Pablo Picasso, the ballet The Confession, based on the novel by Alfred de Musset, and a Requiem. During this period, the composer took inspiration from the great themes linked to existence and religion. His work now expressed a kind of symbolism through melody, harmony, rhythm and timbres. This style continued into the nineties.

Denisov received two French commissions, one from the Ensemble InterContemporain for its tenth anniversary, the other from Daniel Barenboim to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Orchestre de Paris. For this occasion Denisov composed his first symphony, which Barenboim premiered at the Salle Pleyel in 1988 and conducted three times in Chicago in 1991. Denisov also wrote a number of film scores and incidental music during the nearly three decades he collaborated with Yuri Lyubimov, director of the Taganka Theatre in Moscow, putting on productions in Russia and throughout Europe.

Since 1959, he had taught the analysis of musical forms and orchestration at the Moscow Conservatory and, beginning in 1992, composition. In 1990, he took over the direction of Moscow’s Association of Contemporary Music. In 1990-91, he was invited by Pierre Boulez to work at IRCAM, the French experimental music institute located in Paris. Denisov was a corresponding member of the Bavarian and Berlin Academies of Fine Arts. In 1986, he was named Officer of the Academy of Arts and Letters by the French Minister of Culture and received the Grand Prix of the City of Paris in 1993. After a long illness, Denisov died in November 1996 in a Paris hospital.

Tristan Murail was born in 1947 in Le Havre, France. Murail received degrees in classical and North African Arabic languages (at the National School of Oriental Languages) and in economics (at the Paris Institute of Political Sciences) before turning to composition. A student of Olivier Messiaen, he won the Prix de Rome in 1971 and spent two years at the Villa Medici. Upon his return to Paris in 1973, he founded the Itinéraire ensemble with a group of young composers and performers. The group became widely renowned for its groundbreaking explorations of the relationship between instrumental performance and many aspects of electronics. In the eighties, Murail began using computer technology to further his research into acoustic phenomena. This led him to years of collaboration at IRCAM, where he taught composition from 1991 to 1997, and helped develop the Patchwork composition software. Murail has also taught at numerous schools and festivals worldwide, including the Darmstadt Ferienkurse, the Abbaye de Royaumont, and the Centre Acanthes. He currently is an Emeritus Professor of composition at Columbia University, New York.

Composer, music theorist, and professor David S. Lefkowitz was born in New York City, where as a child he studied clarinet, bassoon, and piano. He holds degrees in music composition from Cornell University, University of Pennsylvania, and The Eastman School of Music/University of Rochester.

David S. Lefkowitz has won international acclaim, having works performed in Japan, China, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Russia, the Ukraine, Switzerland, Italy, the Netherlands, Great Britain, France, Germany, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Spain, Canada, Mexico, Israel, and Egypt. He has won national and international competitions, including the Fukui Harp Music Awards Competition (twice), and the American Society of Composers, Authors, & Publishers (ASCAP) Grants to Young Composers Competition. In addition, he has won prizes and recognition from the National Association of Composers, USA (NACUSA), the
About the Artists

Guild of Temple Musicians, Chicago Civic Orchestra, Washington International Competition, Society for New Music’s Brian M. Israel Prize, the ALEA III International Competition, and the Gaudeamus Music Week. He has also been a Meet-The-Composer Composer in Residence.

Recent commissions include works for pianist Suzana Bartal of Paris, the Moscow Contemporary Music Ensemble, Irina Donskaia of the St. Petersburg Conservatory, Grace Cloutier of the Hartford Conservatory, Melia Watras of the Corigliano Quartet, cellist Elinor Frey and pianist David Fung, violinist Pietteri Ivonen, soprano Ursula Kleinecke and Collopy, harpist Grace Cloutier, quintets for Pacific Serenades and the Synergy Ensemble, the Pittsburgh New Music Ensemble, Cantor Joseph Gole and the Cantor’s Assembly, the Harvard Westlake Orchestra, the Beijing National Opera and Dance Drama Theatre Company, and by the Beijing City Opera Company (China’s largest and best Beijing Opera company) to write the music for a thirteen-minute solo dance-drama; the resulting work for small chamber orchestra has been well received by audiences and artists on both sides of the Pacific. He has had music published by MMB Music, Yelton Rhodes Music, Zen-On Music, Pacific Serenades Music, and Fatrock Ink. He has recordings available or soon to be available on Yarlung, Fatrock Ink, Klavier, Japanese Victor, Yamaha, and Albany record labels.

As a music theorist Dr. Lefkowitz has researched “meta-theoretical” issues such as the process of segmentation (a component of post-tonal analysis) and the internal structure of set-classes, and he has written extensively on Schoenberg’s piano music. He has also done work on music theory pedagogy, culminating with his textbook Music Theory: Syntax, Function, and Form which is expected to be published by Schirmer Books soon, and another textbook on the analysis of post-tonal music which is being published by University of California Press. Dr. Lefkowitz is also in demand as a guest lecturer, having given lectures or presentations in Russia, Korea, Taiwan, Spain, and Israel, and in Colorado, Texas, Hawaii, New York, Massachusetts, New Mexico, Vermont, Ohio, and California.

Sean Heim (b. Jan. 27, 1967, Philadelphia) received his first serious musical training in secondary school and soon after began studies in music composition with Harold Oliver at Rowan University (BM cum laude). He then worked with Louis W. Ballard at the Atlantic Center for the Arts, studied with Chinary Ung at Arizona State University (MM), and holds a Ph.D. from The University of Queensland in Brisbane, Australia, where he worked with Philip Bracanin. He currently resides in Southern California and is Associate Professor of Music and Director of Music Composition/Theory at Chapman University.

The primary focus of Heim’s work as a composer has been to develop an imaginative personal language that strongly reflects the compositional techniques and aesthetic of his own western tradition as well as the distillation and infusion of theoretical principles and musical elements found in numerous cultures. His most recent work seeks to delve even deeper to express the base commonalities that lie beneath the surface emanations of culture. Heim’s music also reflects a deep interest in physics and the natural world, and it is out of these collective curiosities that he has created unique fusions that continually evolve by means of increased conceptual and technical abstraction.

Heim has received numerous awards, honors, and commissions from such prestigious institutions as the Fromm Music Foundation, the National Endowment for the Arts, Meet the Composer, the American Music Center, the Atlantic Center for the Arts, the American Composers Forum, and the ASCAP Foundation - including the Rudolf Nissim Prize. His music has been performed to critical acclaim throughout Asia, Australia, Europe, and the United States by many distinguished performers, ensembles and, concert series including: Vicki Ray, Susan Ung, Joseph Wytko, Da Capo, the California E.A.R. Unit, Topology, the Los Angeles Percussion Quartet, the Auros Group for New Music, the Eclipse Quartet, Ensemble Green, the New York Miniaturist Ensemble, Interpretations, Piano Spheres, Hear Now, the Focus Festival at Juilliard, and the Thailand International Composition Festival. His discography includes releases on Sono Luminus, Ein Klang, and Capstone Records.

Helmut Lachenmann (born on November 27, 1935 in Stuttgart) studied piano, theory and counterpoint at the Music Conservatory in Stuttgart from 1955 to 1958 and from 1958 to 1960 composition with Luigi Nono in Venice. The first public performances of his works took place at the Biennale in Venice in 1962 and at the International Summer Courses for New Music in Darmstadt. After his teaching activity at the University in Ludwigsburg Lachenmann taught as professor for composition at the Music Conservatory in Hannover (1976–81) and in Stuttgart (1981–99). Furthermore he managed many seminars, workshops and master classes in Germany and abroad, for example several times at the Summer Courses in Darmstadt between 1978 and 2006. In 2008 Lachenmann taught as Fromm Visiting Professor at the Harvard University, Cambridge/MA. In 2010 he became fellow of the Royal College of Music, London. He received numerous awards for his compositional work, for example the Siemens Musikpreis in 1997, the Royal Philharmonic Society Award London in 2004 and in 2008 the Berliner Kunstpreis as well as the Leone d’oro of the Biennale di Venezia. Lachenmann is honorary doctor at the Music Conservatory Hannover and member of the Academies of the Arts in Berlin, Hamburg, Leipzig, Mannheim and Munich. His works are performed at many festivals and concert series in Germany and abroad. (© Schott Music GmbH & Co. KG, 2015)

Vera Ivanova’s compositions have been described as "...humanistic and deeply felt works..." (John Bilotta, Society of Composers, Inc.). While in her early Fantasy-Toccata (2003) for
About the Artists

Morton Feldman studied composition with Riegger and Wolpe, but especially admired Varèse's music. Early in his career he distanced himself from traditional academic training, earning his living by working in his family's business. Later he served as dean of the New York Studio School (1969–71). A residency in Berlin (1971–2) generated commissions from European orchestras and radio organizations, gaining him wider attention and leading to compositions for larger ensembles. From 1973 until his death, he taught composition as the Donald Aird Composition Competition.

Her works have been performed worldwide. Her music is available in print from Universal Edition, SCI Journal of Music Scores (vol. 45); on CDs from Ablaze Records (Millennial Masters series, Vol. 2), Quartz Music, Ltd, Musiques & Recherches (Metamorphoses 2004), Centaur Records (CRC 3056), and on her website at: www. veraivanova.com.

Ms. Ivanova graduated from the Moscow Conservatory, Guildhall School of Music and Drama in London, and the Eastman School of Music (Ph.D. in Composition). She is currently an Associate Professor of Music at Chapman University and on the Colburn Young Artists Academy faculty. She is also a founding member of Synphony LA-based composers collective and on advisory board of the American Composers Forum (LA Chapter).

Ms. Ivanova is a recipient of the Sprawl Fellowship (Eastman), the Gunn Ellis Bequest Scholarship (Guildhall), 3rd Prize at the 8th International Mozart Competition, 1st Prize (Category "A") at International Contest of Acousmatic Compositions Mélange 2004 (Belgium), ASCAP Morton Gould Young Composers Award, André Chevillon-Yonnee Bonnard Composition Prize (8th International Piano Competition at Orléans, France), Special Award from Yuri Mikhailoff Trust for New Music, Staunton Music Festival commission, Boston Contempo Music Festival award, and she is a winner of the 2013 Athena Festival Chamber Competition and 2013 Donald Aird Composition Competition.

She is the first Russian composer who gave talks at the International Summer Courses in Darmstadt (1992).

The composer’s music has been performed and recorded by radio stations around the world and has been published by music publishing companies in Russia, Holland and the United States.

About the Artists

Alexander Radvilovich was born in 1955 in Saint Petersburg. A graduate of Saint Petersburg State Conservatory in the composition class of Professor S. Slonimsky, he interned at the composers' workshops in Poland, Holland and Germany conducted by W. Lutoslawski, B. Schaeffer, T. de Leeuw, P.-H. Dittrich, and B. Feneyroughe. The latest trends in European music form the basis of his creative work.

He was a prizewinner at the Queen Marie-Jose International Competition (Geneva, Switzerland, 1992) and received the International J.W. Stamatir Special Award (Esslingen, Germany, 1998). He was awarded scholarships by the Ministry of Culture of the Russian Federation (1997-2000, 2015) and the Russian Authors’ Society (2006-2010). Also, he was awarded “Person of the Year” in the “Composer” category, according to the national newspaper Music Review (2007).

His compositions include four symphonies; the symphonic poems The Legend of the Violinist, Claustrophobia, Very Scary Music, and Music for the Soul Leaving; three concertos: for horn and chamber Orchestra, for Harpsichord and Strings, Concerto for Violin, Strings and Percussion; Chamber Symphony Pushkin; Sinfonía Sacra for Chorus and Ensemble; Chamber opera Hindrance to the words of D. Kharms; The Little Boy at Christ’s Christmas Tree (after reading Dostoevsky) for string quartet, percussion and sound recordings; anti-utopia Big Brother to the words of Orwell, Zamyatin, Huxley, and Hesse; and JUDAS, Passion for soloist, Chorus, Orchestra; as well as vocal, choral, chamber and instrumental works and music for children.

Radvilovich is a member of the Composers’ Union of Russia, and founder and artistic director of the International New Music Festival “Sound Ways.” Currently Radvilovich teaches at the Saint Petersburg Conservatory and tours as a composer, solo pianist and leader of his ensemble of contemporary music “Sound Ways!” gives lectures in Russian and foreign universities; and conducts international Master Classes in Europe, Asia and the USA. He is the first Russian composer who gave talks at the International Summer Courses in Darmstadt (1992).

The composer’s music has been performed and recorded by radio stations around the world and has been published by music publishing companies in Russia, Holland and the United States.

Dear Alumni, Parents and Friends:

One of the most critical skill sets our students will acquire during their time at Chapman is artistic career development to help prepare them for success after graduation. To accomplish this requires a quality and rigor of instruction that is second to none – implemented by faculty members who are not only superb teachers, but successful working artists themselves. And it involves patrons of the arts, like you, who embrace the value the arts bring to our society and the impact the arts have on our communities.

With the construction of the new Musco Center for the Arts, never has a community of music, theatre and dance enthusiasts been more essential to the quality of education and opportunities for our emerging artists here in the College of Performing Arts. Your role as a friend, family member and Fund for Excellence supporter means more to our gifted students than ever before.

We invite you to join our community of loyal alumni, parents and community partners who are devoted to developing the talents of the next generation of artists with a gift to the Fund for Excellence. The Fund for Excellence supports the College of Performing Arts initiatives, ensuring our ability to continue providing educational and performing opportunities necessary for our students to grow into successful artists. Your gift impacts our program by:

- Providing life-changing master classes with world-renowned professionals on campus;
- Ensuring top-notch community productions of classic and contemporary art;
- Strengthening our ability to attract the brightest and most talented students, globally, through increased scholarships, program enrichment, and performance travel funds.

Performances like the one you are about to see are a prime example of the type of programming our Fund for Excellence brings to our students and community. We are proud to have presented over 110 productions last year with over 1,200 people in attendance, and I know you have enjoyed and valued the performing arts opportunities we provide. I hope you will take the next step by making a gift to our Fund for Excellence. Please know each one of our students benefits from your decision to support the College. With your gift, you will be a part of a family of individuals who demonstrate, year after year, their commitment to developing the talents of young artists. I hope you join us not only because you value the arts, but because you believe in and want to invest in our next generation of artists.

Enjoy the performance, and I look forward to seeing you again at one of our many performance events throughout the coming year.
