Dearest,

I just got your letter to-day and I was so glad it came so soon. I missed you so much, even more so after you have left.

Ton night, after you left I went to bed and actually cried my self to sleep. Oh darling some times I wonder if every thing is going to come out alright. I was looking in the paper for you, there are jobs but they all require experience and you will need money.

I went to that guy I was supposed to and it turned out to be a fizzle, and the agencies are not hiring. I answered several letters but I wonder if they are any good I mean ads in the paper. I am enclosing some ads in the paper just to give you an idea of how things are. I'll send you another one in a couple of days or a week.

I went to the show last night to fight. Did you see Jim?

I wonder when he is coming in. Even if he comes in, would you come in then?

Sister, honey, you don't have to send me any money but if you want to help me send me some stamps. Every time I have to mail a letter it costs a dime. I can only get stamps in a machine.

I'm so mixed up I can't even write. But I'll write more later.

yours

Evelyn
