Darling:

a short letter tonight to tell you simply I love you and miss you more than I can put in mere words. This week I've had a lot of work but though this work helped boost up our flying time. The past few days it's been cloudy with the sun peeking through about four hours a day.

I really can't say anything concerning your trial you must have experienced today - words cannot express my feelings in this matter. I sincerely hope things go well with you today. Mom I'm lost for words after reading your letter today saying you were going through with your plans.

I've got to cut this letter short Sweet saying I love you, have faith in me and always love me too after your trial I close this letter

Lovingly and humbly

Wally
