Dear Jack,

I got your letter just before I left for school. I read it on the street car and oh, darling, I almost cried right then and there! If I would have known how I hurt you I would never have written anything like that. You are the last person in the world that I would want to hurt like that. Please don't misunderstand me. I only wrote to you to make you see through the whole thing. But dearest please don't feel that way any more. It hurts me when you do.

Does Jim know the Labor day is our holiday? Or doesn't that make any difference?

Did you do as I asked you to in my last letter? I think Rabbi Kramer is leaving very shortly. But maybe you can catch him in time if he gets the letter by noon.

I got Jim's letter Fri. Really I'm very much dissapointed in Jim I counted on him so much.

By the way, have they sold our old house yet? Boy that old house sure does hold a lot of memories.

Honey, will you send me some more stamps? Didn't I tell you that I recieved the other ones and the dollar? Gosh, I don't know what I would do without you. I have about 15¢ left and no stamps. So you see I'm pretty flat.

When I got your letter to-day I was almost tempted to call you up. But those calls do cost money. By the way, how much money have you got saved up?

I have not heard from Esther yet. Maybe she has forgotten all about me. I got a letter from Stella to-day and she said she never even sees you. Why don't you ever drop around to see her? She said Roy + Betty are living in Warren. I wish we could get away to some place like that. I'd love a small town when we could start our friends all new and our life all fresh.

Well, dear, I must close as if I want you to get this

Sat. I'll have to mail it right away. If you don't get no letter from me, make you it is because I have no stamps.

yours,

Loabel.

P.S. Darling, I love you very much.
