Dear Martin,

I weep with you as I read "The Government and the Arts" in today's Times. I am even more saddened when, in the absence of government support, our urgent need for local support remains unrecognized. And I am concerned over the lack of any announcement in the Music News column of our forthcoming 10th anniversary season, with the opening event only three weeks away.

Your July 11 news item relegating the California Chamber Symphony to suburbia and questioning its concern for authenticity has hurt us. The new chamber group has eagerly picked it up, reprinted it, and saturated the community with it.

If the activities of the California Chamber Symphony, including its innumerable concerts for young people throughout the Southland for the past decade, have any merit in your eyes, now would be a crucial time to recognize our efforts. Some weeks ago I sent you a 4-page outline which you had asked me to send you.

Yours cordially,

Henri Temianka
