Dear Henri:

My grief at missing you tonight is only partially assuaged by your beautiful telegram. The elevation of its style and the nobility of its sentiments almost reconciled me to being sixty-three years old. I don't mind telling you that this is quite a job of reconciliation. Birthdays seem to come around every few weeks nowadays, and I don't like them anywhere near as well as I used to. I am grateful to you for helping me bear this last one.

Of course we are very much concerned about Emmy. I hope you will find some way of letting me know how she is doing. In the meantime we send you both our love and our very best wishes.

As ever yours,

Robert M. Hutchins
