Dearest Darling,

Less than a week to go in the field now. It will feel pretty good to get back to a bit of civilization again. I guess that business of going to Camp Forrest for a few days was more rumor than anything else. As far as I know now we'll just leave the field Monday, March 27, and arrive at Pickett sometime Wednesday.

I sure wish I could be home for your birthday, darling, but we'll make it up when I do get home. I'll wait till I get there to give you gift too, Sweetie, O.K.? There I go planning just as if I had the furlough papers right in my hand. Well, anyway will keep on hoping, honey. Meantime I'll wish you a happy birthday, and hope that next year I'll be home for keeps, and can really make a happy birthday for my little wife.

I hope your cold gets better real soon, honey. Take care of yourself. You're working hard. Leave some of the house work slide till you feel better.

This will be a Shorty Bell, honey. Nothing new to write about.

I'm sending bushels of hugs and kisses, and all my love.

Your own,

Jack
