Dearest darling,

Just a little old beat up letter to my little sweetheart. Gee, honey I wish I could write a real nice one, but every day is so much like every other one that I just don't have anything interesting to write.

Well, let's see now - I took a shower this afternoon, and put on clean O.D.'s. so I feel a little like a well dressed feller. While I was visiting Chuck, Johnnie Enlow gave me a pair of oxfords. They sure are comfortable to wear in the evening. They're just like the ones I had when I left.

Do Sam and Libby have an apartment somewhere near Perry or does he come home weekends? Wouldn't we hate it if I were stationed there, honey?

Did Mr. Klein get you the cat? I hope the rats are all gone now. Personally, I hate the damn things, don't you? The rats I mean, not the cats.

Darling, I have a confession to make. I'm in love with a beautiful little brunette. She is really a honey. About five feet two with a shape that is yummy! Real pretty dark brown hair, and big brown eyes, and the sweetest smile in the world. Know who I mean? You're my cuddly lover, and my lovely cuddler, sweetie, and I'm just existing till the day I can take you in my arms, and never let you go.

Honey, you know one of the things I want to do when I come home? Maybe it sounds kind of foolish, but I've been thinking about it a lot lately. Some nice summer day I'd like to come home from work, and find you have a good picnic lunch together, and then we'll drive down to Cascade Park, and have supper, just you and I.

Well, Sweetheart I guess this is about all my feeble brain can put out for this trip so I'll wrap up millions of hugs and kisses, and all my love,
Your Own,
Jack
