Darling Fink,

Another day is ending. One day closer to that good one. It can't come too soon for us, can it, Sweetie?

I have your picture before me, lover. You're such a beautiful girl. I just love to sit and look at you. Of course I wish it could be in person, but until then, all our wonderful memories keep me company. You're such a sweet, wonderful darling to be married to that even if we have to be separated for a while now I keep cheerful thinking of our good future together.

Baby dear, when I come home we'll declare a holiday, and just have a month's vacation. We'll just do whatever we want to, and start in to catch up on some of the loving it's going to take us a lifetime to even up on. Oh darling, how you're going to be loved. I'll just want to hold you so close, and never let you go. I wish I could express myself better in a letter, but when we're together I can tell you and show you how very much you mean to me, honey.

It's warmed up a little here this evening altho' it's still not real comfortable. I'll be glad when summer comes and stays, but mostly I'll be glad when I get back to the company so I can get some letters from you. It's been five weeks and a day now. How I miss them.

Well, sweetie this isn't a very long letter, but I'll try to do better tomorrow. I'm enclosing millions of hugs and kisses, and all my love.

Your own,
Jack
