Darling Lover,

I received your sweet letter of October 14th. today. That's very good time, isn't it?

Glad the speedometer is fixed again. You said it bothered your conscience now because before you didn't think you were going very fast. Don't think we an old worry wart, but all the tires are pretty old so be careful honey. I don't want anything to happen to my little sweetie. Some fine day darling we're going to breeze out in a sleek new convertible. Will you like that honey?

Yes lover we always had good times. It's nice to think back on them now. You know you're a wonderful darling to go places with. We'll have those good times in the future too, baby dear.

There was a piece in the paper tonight which said that the shipment of troops home won't be slowed down, and they thought they could top their own expectations. The statement was issued by the War Department. Oh darling it sure would be nice if we can be together on our fifth anniversary. We'll keep our fingers crossed.

Darling you write such wonderful letters. It's the next best thing to hearing you talk. Won't it be grand tho' when we won't have to write. We'll probably talk a leg off each other. I miss the little chats we used to have. In fact I miss every little thing about you sweetheart, and I'm just existing till I can see your sweet smile, and hear your dear voice. I love you so baby Fink. You're the dearest sweetest darlinest wife in all the world, and I'm

Such a lucky fellow to have you for my very own. Life is a wonderful adventure with you darling. We were just meant for each other sweetie.

How I'd love to be going shopping with you this evening honey. I used to enjoy Saturday nite so much. Maybe it won't be so long now till we'll be going on our little shopping trips together.

I'm enclosing millions of hugs and kisses, and all my love.

Your own,

Jack
