Dear Mr. Day:

Thank you for advising me that you are considering my manuscript for publication. My proposal, I fully realize, could not be implemented overnight without causing panic in the streets. Nonetheless, it seems to me, if we do not consider it now, under the fortuitous constellation of the Bicentennial celebrations, it might have to be shelved until the Tricentennial, a contingency too horrible to contemplate.

Whatever its practical merits, the proposal should at the very least increase the public's awareness of the great personalities who have dwelt among us in Los Angeles.

Yours sincerely,

Henri Temianka
