Dear Henri,

Thank you for your note about your future possible affiliation with CIA. In recent news from Alison, she said that she had had a rather lengthy discussion privately with De Lancie about a number of things concerning the institute in general and about her private studies in particular. She said that he appeared to be sympathetic to her views, but he needs time to try to evaluate what, if anything, might be done. At the moment, she seems quite resolved to see things through there. I really can't judge whether she will or won't. If a change does take place, I would like the initiative to come from her.

I appreciate your interest. When your appointment becomes finalized, I will inform her of the same. This will open up another option possibly in case she decides that her studies at Curtis are no longer that profitable.

Most cordially,

David Dalton
