Dear Henri:

I hope you will accept my warmest congratulations on your sensitive appreciation of Walter Paepcke. Far from being a conventionalized acknowledgement of accomplishment, it is an essay that stands on its own and possesses great tensile strength; through its exploration of the ideas that moved and excited Walter Paepcke, we get inside the man and come to understand him in ways that the more conventional essay do not make possible. Your paper makes me more eager than ever to see the book when it appears.

You can be sure I will take you up on the offer to get together when next I am on the West coast. I have given your regards to Ellen, and she joins me in sending you and Emmy our love.

With warmest regards,
