Dear Henri:

What a wonderful gift you have made to us and our patrons of the first installment of the correspondence, brochures, pamphlets, photographs, programs, and other materials which document your phenomenal career as a performer, conductor, teacher, musical director and administrator. Your's has been an illustrious and successful association with the musical world and I hope will continue to be for many years to come.

Your archive is important not only for the contracts, letters, photographs and other materials relating to the greatest musicians today, but also for its documentation of the development of music in our city. The Los Angeles Community has grown very much culturally in response to your many concert series over the last several decades. It will be a valuable resource for the research of UCLA students and faculty and by scholars from the community at large.

I have enclosed an inventory of your gift and I look forward with joy to many more such contributions. I hope your association with the UCLA Music Library will continue to be strong and happy.

Sincerely,
