L'Ame Ailee - L'Ame Ouverte (1973) for solo violin  Giacinto Scelsi

ITI. KE. MI. (1995) for solo viola  Pierluigi Billone

~Brief Intermission~

6 Capricci (1976) for solo violin  Salvatore Sciarrino

About the Artist

Marco Fusi, violinist, violist and viola d'amore player, has studied with Dimitrios Polisoidis, Ernst Kovacic and Jeanne-Marie Conquer.

Marco has performed with conductors and soloists including Pierre Boulez, Lorin Maazel, Peter Eotvos, Beat Furrer, Susanna Malkki, Vladimir Ashkenazy, Gustav Kuhn, Jiir Wyttenbach, Jean Deroyer, and Marco Angius. He has premiered new works by composers Castiglioni, Eotvos, Sciarrino, Vacchi, and Cattaneo, among others. Marco has had the opportunity to perform concerts in renowned halls such as the Muziekgebouw in Amsterdam, Auditorium Parco della Musica in Rome, KKL Konzertsaal in Lucerne, Beyond Baroque in Los Angeles, Experimental Intermedia in NYC, Tchaikovsky Concert Hall in Moscow, and the Bela Bartok Concert Hall in Budapest.

Marco has collaborated with Ensemble Algoritmo (Rome), Interface (Frankfurt), Proton (Bern), Linea (Strasbourg), Phoenix (Basel), l'Arsenale (Treviso), MotoPerpetuo (NYC), Ecce (Boston), Handwerk (Koln).

His complete recording of John Cage’s Freeman Etudes was released by Stradivarius; he has been invited to present this project, giving concerts, masterclasses and lectures at University of Southern California, Columbia University, Arizona State University, Basel Musikhochschule, University of Chicago.

Program Notes

L'Ame Ailee - L'Ame Ouverte

A frequent technique Scelsi used is to sustain a central pitch or pitch complex, based on active figuration around it, or by narrow fluctuations of pitches surrounding long-held notes. L'ame ailee - L'ame ouverte, which can be translated into “winged soul – open soul”, is one of his more austere pieces. In this solo work for violin, the musical material is restricted to the microtonal interweaving of lines and a sustained monody.

Giacinto Scelsi; (8 January 1905 – 9 August 1988) was an Italian composer who also wrote surrealist poetry in French.

He is best known for writing music based around only one pitch, altered in all manners through microtonal oscillations, harmonic allusions, and changes in timbre and dynamics, as paradigmatically exemplified in his revolutionary Quattro Pezzi su una nota sola ("Four Pieces on a single note", 1959). His musical output, which encompassed all Western classical genres except scenic music, remained largely undiscovered even within contemporary musical circles during most of his life. (B. Sanderson, allmusic.com)

ITI. KE. MI. (New Moon. Mouth. Feminine) for Viola is the result of a long period of study and research with the instrument by the composer followed by actually working together with the performer.

It should be stated here at the outset that neither the stringing nor the tuning of the viola are standard: two fourth strings, one third and one first string are tuned E, C, G and A in that order. Further, both score and notation - the latter also uses a system of colours - are inevitably very complex because their job is to define, differentiate between and represent a veritable maze of techniques and sounds which the performer is required to employ and produce.

These techniques and sounds make huge demands on the performer's physical and interpretative abilities since the work is a total rethink of the instrument and the huge number of roles required of the viola mean that at times the results sound utterly unlike music for a stringed instrument. The sophisticated combination of various approaches to fingering and bowing separates out the individual components of a sound and puts them back together in such a way that a whole new horizon opens onto vibrations.

In the composer's own words, "Some 'rough', unstable vibrations of the strings contain shorter surface vibrations: traces of apparent vocal vibrations or from some indecipherable source which are created only when there is movement and which cannot be separated from the rough vibration generating them. There is an unheard background which initially becomes apparent only under certain conditions and particularly in what might be defined the "shade" cast by techniques and vibrations which are already familiar to the listener. This background or "elsewhere" is the very place over which thousands of fingers have passed back and forth as they played. These thousands of fingers did not notice those traces of sound vibration and merely ignored them because they had nothing to do with what was most obviously (and certainly) musical and because those traces shift one's attention to where the most familiar distinctions become blurred or simply fall away. These precariously unique vibrations are that elusive point where various kinds of connections join each other, just as an eclipse - a "moment" on a planetary scale - reveals a new order of things awaiting discovery."

ITI-New Moon is an allusion to the absence of traditional sound. The connection with the moon is that its light prevents the appearance of the background and what that background contains. And at the extreme opposites of this background content lie vibrations of the metal or wooden parts of the viola, (direct contact between wood and metal or wood and wood), and elusive races of vocal sound (KE-Mouth) which combines speaking and singing, (particular fingering and bowing techniques and combinations of both thereof).

The pace of this work develops as though it were moving through a number of spaces where, against a constantly differing background, traces of vocal sound appear and vanish with all their particular variety of characters and accents. In some cases, these traces acquire a dramatic quality because of the nature of the vibrations from which they emerge. This occurs, for instance, at the climax dominated by the mechanical vibrations of the wood of the bow directly upon the strings: it is difficult here to tell the difference between the penetrating oscillation of the hypertreble harmonics and the screeching of metal wheels on a steel rail or the cry of a bird or of a human being. And the same is true of what happens next, when the player's left hand is well beyond the bridge of the instrument and on the short stretch of string between bridge and tailpiece, conjuring up an unlikely sort of "stuttering" sound which might just as well be the irregular vibration of a car exhaust.

The first person to experience shock and disbelief at all this is obviously the performer and first, when the player's left hand is well beyond the bridge of the instrument and on the short stretch of string between bridge and tailpiece, conjuring up an unlikely sort of "stuttering" sound which might just as well be the irregular vibration of a car exhaust.

The quotation is from the film "Nostalgia" directed by Tarkovsky. Under a protest banner that read "We are not mad. We are serious", the character Domenico recites the following haiku in farewell before setting himself on fire:

"Oh mother, oh mother, the air is that lightness surrounding your head which becomes clearer when you laugh. Now music!"

Salvatore Sciarrino (Palermo, 1947) boasts of being born free and not in a music school. He started composing when he was twelve as a self-taught person and held his first public concert in 1962.

But Sciarrino considers all the works before 1966 as a developing apprenticeship because that is when his personal style began to reveal itself. There is something really particular that characterizes this music: it leads to a different way of listening, a global emotional realization, of reality as well as of one's self. And after forty years, the extensive catalogue of Sciarrino's compositions is still in a phase of surprising creative development. After his classical studies and a few years of university in his home city, the Sicilian composer moved to Rome in 1969 and in 1977 to Milan. Since 1983, he has lived in Città di Castello, in Umbria.
Program Notes

He has composed for: Teatro alla Scala, RAI, Teatro del Maggio Musicale Fiorentino, Biennale di Venezia, Teatro La Fenice di Venezia, Teatro Carlo Felice di Genova, Fondazione Arena di Verona, Stuttgart Opera Theatre, Brussels La Monnaie, Frankfurt Opera Theatre, Amsterdam Concertgebouw, London Symphony Orchestra, Tokyo Suntory Hall. He has also composed for the following festivals: Schwetzinger Festspiele, Donaueschinger Musiktage, Witten, Salzburg, New York, Wien Modern, Wiener Festwochen, Berliner Festspiele Musik, Holland Festival, Alborough, Festival d’Automne (Paris), Ultima (Oslo).

He was published by Ricordi from 1969 to 2004. Since 2005, Rai Trade has had exclusive rights for Sciarrino’s works. Sciarrino’s discography is pretty extensive and counts over 100 CDs, published by the best international record labels and very often awarded and noted. Apart from being author of most of his theatre opera’s librettos, Sciarrino wrote a rich production of articles, essays and texts of various genres some of which have been chosen and collected in Carte da suono, CIDIM – Novecento, 2001. Particularly important is his interdisciplinary book about musical form: Le figure della musica, da Beethoven a oggi, Ricordi 1998.

Sciarrino taught at the Music Academies of Milan (1974–83), Perugia (1983–87) and Florence (1987–96). He also worked as a teacher in various specialization courses and master classes among which are those held in Città di Castello from 1979 to 2000.

From 1978 to 1980, he was Artistic Director of Teatro Comunale di Bologna, Academic of Santa Cecilia (Roma), Academic of Fine Arts of Bavaria and Academic of the Arts (Berlin), Sciarrino has won many awards, among the most recent are: Prince Pierre de Monaco (2003) and the prestigious Feltrinelli International Award (Premio Internazionale Feltrinelli) (2003). He is also the first prizewinner of the newly created Salzburg Music Prize (2006), an International Composition Price established by the Salzburg Land.

In 2006 his new opera Da gelo a gelo, coproduced by Schwetzinger Festspiele, Opéra National de Paris and Grand Théâtre de Genève, was performed to great acclaim. In 2008 La Scala Philharmonic Orchestra performed his 4 Adagi and 12 Madrigali were premiered in the summer of the same year in a portrait series dedicated to him by the Salzburg Festival.
Dear Alumni, Parents and Friends:

One of the most critical skill sets our students will acquire during their time at Chapman is artistic career development to help prepare them for success after graduation. To accomplish this requires a quality and rigor of instruction that is second to none – implemented by faculty members who are not only superb teachers, but successful working artists themselves. And it involves patrons of the arts, like you, who embrace the value the arts bring to our society and the impact the arts have on our communities.

With the construction of the new Musco Center for the Arts, never has a community of music, theatre and dance enthusiasts been more essential to the quality of education and opportunities for our emerging artists here in the College of Performing Arts. Your role as a friend, family member and Fund for Excellence supporter means more to our gifted students than ever before.

We invite you to join our community of loyal alumni, parents and community partners who are devoted to developing the talents of the next generation of artists with a gift to the Fund for Excellence. The Fund for Excellence supports the College of Performing Arts initiatives, ensuring our ability to continue providing educational and performing opportunities necessary for our students to grow into successful artists. Your gift impacts our program by:

- Providing life-changing master classes with world-renowned professionals on campus;
- Ensuring top-notch community productions of classic and contemporary art;
- Strengthening our ability to attract the brightest and most talented students, globally, through increased scholarships, program enrichment, and performance travel funds.

Performances like the one you are about to see are a prime example of the type of programming our Fund for Excellence brings to our students and community. We are proud to have presented over 110 productions last year with over 1,200 people in attendance, and I know you have enjoyed and valued the performing arts opportunities we provide. I hope you will take the next step by making a gift to our Fund for Excellence. With your gift, you will be a part of a family of individuals who demonstrate, year after year, their commitment to developing the talents of young artists. I hope you join us not only because you value the arts, but because you believe in and want to invest in our next generation of artists.

Enjoy the performance, and I look forward to seeing you again at one of our many performance events throughout the coming year.

Invest in our next generation of artists.

The College of Performing Arts brings you the most vital and powerful part of our curriculum – live performances of dance, music and theatre. This extraordinary hands-on training for our next generation of artists is possible only through your generosity.

With every gift to the College of Performing Arts, you are helping to build and sustain a dynamic learning environment that nurtures the creativity of our students, ensuring they master their craft. Exceptional performances like what you are about to see are only made possible with support from people committed to excellence in performing arts. People just like you.

Your investment is a vote of confidence in our faculty, staff and programs, and, most importantly, it provides a meaningful difference in the lives of our talented students as they transform into tomorrow's professional artists.

To learn more about how you can extend your support as a valued audience member by becoming an invested patron of the College of Performing Arts, please contact Peggy Rupple, Development Coordinator, at (714) 289-2085 or prupple@chapman.edu.
