Dear Professor Mell,

I want to express my deepest gratitude to you for your magnificent article just received. What meticulous research, what devotion, what splendid writing. I am so proud of this tribute as I trust you are, and look forward to receiving a few copies if this causes you no inconvenience. I shall gladly join you as a subscriber if you will let me have the needed information.

My second book is now in the hands of an agent, and I am at last free to work on my book on violin playing, which is well advanced. I have not yet given any thought as to who should publish it.

With my warmest heartfelt thanks,

Yours most cordially
Henri Temianka
