Henri

Although it is still some two years to go until the City of Paris Competition scheduled to take place from 8 to 17 October 1992, it is not too early to gear my happy anticipation of our reunion - especially in view of the busy professional life you lead - to promises of an all-absorbing and enjoyable succession of days, which will bring together both a very compatible and sympathetic jury and an assuredly brilliant array of talent.

I am planning to follow my previous somewhat unorthodox plan, which I inaugurated in Paris in 1985, now a little improved, by which alongside the principle prizes there will be separate prizes for seven or eight categories, including a new one for orchestral concert master.

I should be most grateful if you would mark the dates in your diary. The City of Paris competition office will be in touch with you in due course. If there is any difficulty with the dates, please let me know.

With warmest greetings,

Yours,

*Love to both
Henri*
