James H. Vail is Professor Emeritus of Choral and Sacred Music at the Thornton School of Music of the University of Southern California, where he taught from 1961 to 1999 and chaired the Choral and Church Music Department from 1976 to 1991. The USC Concert Choir, which he conducted for thirty years, appeared under his direction throughout the western and mid-western United States, Germany, Austria and Italy, and sang at a number of national and regional conventions of the American Choral Directors Association and the Music Educators National Conference. Upon his retirement, Dr. Vail was chosen by his fellow faculty members as the 1999 recipient of the coveted Ramo Music Faculty Award “in recognition of his outstanding contribution to music and education, to the School of Music and the University of Southern California, and beyond.”

Dr. Vail was Organist and Choirmaster at St. Alban’s Episcopal Church from 1969 to 2009. Upon his retirement in June 2009, he was named Organist and Choirmaster Emeritus. For the well-known series of concerts and festival services during his forty years at St. Alban’s he conducted some 125 major choral works—mostly with orchestra, and many of them more than once. Dr. Vail holds the B.M. degree in organ from the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia and the M.M. and D.M.A. in church music from USC.

Iris S. Levine is highly sought as guest conductor, clinician, and adjudicator for choral festivals throughout the country. Department Chair and Professor of Music at California State Polytechnic University in Pomona, she is now in her twentieth year at Cal Poly, where she conducts the Kellogg Chamber Singers and teaches a variety of course work in choral music education.

Dr. Levine is founder and artistic director of Vox Femina Los Angeles, L.A.’s premiere women’s chorus. Through her extensive experience with women’s choral literature and innovative concert programming, Dr. Levine has made numerous appearances with the choir at American Choral Directors Association (ACDA) conventions and Chorus America conferences, as well as over 100 appearances throughout the United States, Mexico and Canada. Levine also serves as Artistic Director for the Master Chorus at Stephen S. Wise Temple and as ACDA Western Division Chair of the Repertoire and Standards Committee for Women’s Choirs.

Having earned her Doctorate in Choral Music from the University of Southern California, she studied with Rodney Eichenberger, James Vail, and Morten Lauridsen. Dr. Levine also holds a masters degree in Choral Conducting from Temple University in Philadelphia, where she studied with Alan Harler.
