Dear Mr. Tetrinaka

Come as early as you can Sunday morning, as we can pass the time in this lovely place quite as enjoyably just breathing in the good air as we could guaranteeing!

As for ^{road} indications just take the main road to Santa Cruz, but as you enter the hills immediately after Los Gatos (some 20 odd miles before Santa Cruz) keep an eye out (about 2 miles past Los Gatos) for the old two-lane road to Santa Cruz which branches off to the left and which is marked "ALMA".

About a mile and a half farther on you arrive at Alma which is nothing more than a Post Office, grocery store and a defunct railway station. Drive up to this station on your left, cross the old road-bed, continue on to your right - across a concrete county bridge and turn right up the first road immediately past the county bridge.

You will come upon a white gate marked "Private Property"; just disregard the sign and drive on for about a mile and a half.

"ahem"
