Mr. & Mrs. Henri Temianka
2915 Patricia Avenue
Los Angeles, CA 90064

Dear Emmy & Henri:

As an average proletarian who, on occasion, having dined with the rich, needs to stop on the way home for a hamburger, I can say without exaggeration that luncheon on Sunday was a feast for any gourmet (the salmon resembled ambrosia). In all respects it was an occasion Mei-Lee and I will long remember.

Your taste and distinction are everywhere so evident in your home--especially in your conversation. However idle it may seem, however improvised, your perceptions are always enchanting.

Thank you so much for having us. Mei-Lee and I have occupied a great deal of our time reflecting on our good fortune in knowing you. Nothing is so hard to come by as friends with whom you can spend an enchanting Sunday in a beautiful house and garden.

We love you,
