Maestro, I apologize for my inept way of handling my notice the other day. I never have been able to express myself well verbally, so I'd like to take this chance to let you know how much I really have enjoyed the privilege of working with you. I feel I've been given a wonderful opportunity to learn a great deal and hope that some of your vast reserves of knowledge and experience have rubbed off on me.

I'm sure you know that I am making a change at this time for financial reasons only, and I regret that I must leave you & Susan, who have become my second family away from home. I intend to cooperate in any way to make this change as smooth as possible, and wish you the best in your exciting plans for next season. Love, Shersten
