Dear Emmy and Henri,

I want to thank you for that very special and lovely dinner in your fragrant garden and how good it was to see you both again, side by side, bantering, chatting, agreeing and disagreeing; plus ca change and isn't that nice except a couple of creak and groans in the joint. And I see what Henri's energy is from; no bitterness now that he's no longer performing; instead the same determined optimism to make life a big success, whether it be teaching writing or just living to the hilt. A gift.

Emmy you really look swell. After all these years you're the same beauty as I saw as a thirteen year old girl; the years fall away and this incredibly witty and articulate maverick mind begins to weave its verbal spells - i loved seeing you again - still beautiful and still talking strong.

So I send you both my love and I thank you both for your hospitality and the same wonderful rush of excitement about this or that in our lives.

Much love

Judy Feiffer
