Dearest Mr. Temianka -

Here I am in Dallas enjoying warm weather and cleanliness. (I haven't seen a roach yet!)

I had my first rehearsal with the orchestra this afternoon and I didn't play as well as I could have due to an extreme case of nerves which caused my bow to fly all over the place in the first movement ~ nevertheless the conductor, Walter Hellew, (director of the Royal Philharmonic in London) and the symphony were very enthused and inspired - they did a marvelous job - Hellew followed my every nuance and the Tuttis were exciting and beautiful. Mr. Hellew, much to my surprise, invited me to play with him in London; an offer I could hardly refuse. He is especially fond of the Chausson Poème, and since I've had quite a lot of success with that piece, I think we will choose that, perhaps along with something else.

Hopefully tomorrow I will be more relaxed so I can really play my best. Keep your fingers crossed for me!

All my love,
Kina

PS please send my warm regards to Mrs. Temianka and also Sheldon.
